Dr. Magan Honored in Final Sixtieth Anniversary Program

The University concluded on June 6 a series of events observing the 60th anniversary of its founding by naming the administration building "Percy Magan Hall" in memory of Percy T. Magan, MD, former president of the University.

Before a crowd of about 300 persons, Dr. Wellesley P. Magan, a 1918 School of Medicine alumnus, unveiled a plaque on the building recognizing his father's contribution to the University.

The elder Magan, who was graduated in 1914 from the University of Tennessee College of Medicine, served as president of the University from 1928 until 1942. He was 80 when he died in 1947, survived until several months ago by his wife, Lillian E. Magan, also a physician.

Walter E. Macpherson, MD, vice president for medical affairs, eulogized Dr. Magan as a fearless administrator dedicated to his God and to the success of the University, which at that time was the College of Medical Evangelists.

President Godfrey T. Anderson presented Mrs. Magan and Mrs. Merlin Neff with bouquets of roses. Mrs. Neff's husband, who died last August, wrote a biography of Dr. Magan, For God and CME.

At the same early afternoon service the University saluted its first school, the School of Nursing, and placed a plaque on a stone that once stood on the site of the American Medical Missionary College in Michigan.

That college, which closed in 1910, was the first medical school founded by the Seventh-day Adventist church.

Among those introduced as being associated with the University in its early days were a 1908 graduate from the School of Nursing, Mrs. Nora Cloud, and Dr. Edmund C. Jaeger, who attended the sanitarium dedication in 1915 as a boy and who later taught in the elementary school in Loma Linda. He is a noted biologist and author.

Music for the service was provided by the Long Beach Municipal Band.

Other 60th anniversary events have featured Dr. Paul Tillich (January), the State of the University address by President Anderson (February), the Medical Missionary Convocation-Banquet (March), "The Outreach of the Church's Health Emphasis" by Walter R. Beach (April), and the Founders' Day Luncheon and Convocation with a review of the University's birth by Francis D. Nichol (May).

Governor Salutes 60th Anniversary

California Governor Edmund G. Brown and other state officials, together with leaders of the Seventh-day Adventist church and others, have sent congratulatory statements to the University on the occasion of its sixtieth anniversary.

"The citizens of California thank you for your work," said Governor Brown. "It is with great pride that I salute Loma Linda University on its sixty years of educational and humanitarian service to California, the nation, and the world."

"Loma Linda University has always endeavored to create an environment conducive to infusion of sound moral, ethical, and religious principles in harmony with Christian teachings. It has tried to motivate persistent intellectual curiosity. It has tried to provide professional competence and purposeful living in the service of God and humanity."

"In this, your sixtieth year, it is obvious that you have succeeded in these goals," he concluded.

United States Senator from California Thomas H. Kuchel stated in a telegram that the University's six decades of service have helped to educate Americans to understand problems facing people and nations, at home and around the globe.

"Loma Linda is well and favorably known in all areas of education and health circles in the nation's capital," according to Ken W. Dyal, United States Congressman from the 33rd district in California.

Donovan F. Ward, MD, president of the American Medical Association, praised the University for its high standards and for farsighted and meaningful education.

Dr. Witzel to Teach At Vellore College

Everet W. Witzel, SM '62, instructor in anatomy, will leave this summer for a two-year teaching position at Vellore Christian Medical College in India. As a visiting professor he will teach anatomy at the college, which is affiliated with the University of Madras.

Dr. Witzel

"Dr. Witzel is uniquely qualified for this assignment," says Harold Shryock, MD, professor and chairman of the department of anatomy. "The request from Vellore specified that the teacher have an MD degree and graduate work in anatomy. Dr. Witzel meets both of these requirements. While on leave he will retain his rank at the University and will become assistant professor of anatomy on July 1, according to a recent action of the Board of Trustees."

Dr. Witzel received his BA degree from Andrews University in 1957. He earned his MS and MD degrees at Loma Linda University. After interning at Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital, he was awarded a post-doctoral fellowship at the University of Chicago. He joined the staff of his Alma Mater in 1964.

He will be accompanied to his new post by his wife, Joan, and his two children: Eddie, 6; and Judy, 4.

Vellore Christian Medical College and Hospital was founded by Dr. Ira Scudder in 1900. The college, with its 923-bed hospital, has 318 medical students in training, and graduates 60 nurses annually.

The institution is supported by 23 missions and churches in India, and by 39 church groups outside India, including the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, which owns and

School of Dentistry Is Reaccredited

The School of Dentistry and the Dental Hygiene Curriculum at Loma Linda University have both been reapproved by the Council on Dental Education for up to five years.

Formal notification received last week by School of Dentistry Dean Charles T. Smith followed a week-long inspection of the two programs last March. Accreditation of educational programs in dentistry is for an indefinite period, with reexamination always scheduled within five years.

The Council on Dental Education, which approves such programs at schools in the United States, represents the American Association of Dental Schools, the American Association of Dental Examiners, and the American Dental Association. The examining team which spent March 8 to 12 at the Loma Linda school included faculty members from two other dental schools, an American Dental Association official, a

An estimated 6,000 persons attended the University's conferring of degrees commencement event held at the Redlands Bowl Sunday, June 6.

Winton H. Beaven, PhD, academic dean and president-elect of Columbia Union College, delivered an address titled "The Private World of the Inner Me" at the ceremony in which more than 300 degrees and certificates were awarded.

Dr. Beaven warned the graduates to beware of slanted truth designed to force men's thinking in a certain direction.

"You're going into a world motivated by moral futility. You will be tempted to withdraw yourself into your own neighborhood," he continued. "Don't go into the world thinking it's waiting for you or even that it needs you. The world needs your success, what's inside you, the contribution you have to make."

"The educated person must realize that fragmented knowledge will not produce an educated man," he said. "Fragmented education produces a

The President's Charge

By Godfrey T. Anderson, PhD
President, Loma Linda University

(The President's Charge to the graduates of 1965 was delivered at the conferring of degrees ceremony, Sunday, June 6.)

Tradition decrees that vested authority speak to the graduates in the final moments of this service. Circumstances have cast me in this role.

As you accept your diploma you drop the burden of formal preparation which you have been carrying, and assume the heavier burden of performing capably and conscientiously the responsibilities which your maturity and education lay upon you.

The quality and effectiveness of the University will be gauged by the excellence of your work and the integrity of your character. Mindful of our Lord's dictum that much will be required of him to whom much has been given, your school has endeavored to help you develop, in addition to professional competence, a sense of humane concern. Having chosen Loma Linda University, you now have the moral obligation to fulfill its ideals and forward its purposes.

Above the noise which men term fame, the voice of duty calls you. Beyond the glitter of its golden dross, nobler and more enduring values beckon. Beware the barren heights of arrogance and pseudo-sophistication — a wasteland with insidious attraction for those who progress upward. Preserve in your heart a place for reverence and worship. Never permit the bewitching gadgetry of science to crowd out wonder from your soul.

Now as you leave your school to take your place in the world among those for whom agony and ecstasy have always gone hand in hand, may you act a worthy part. Let your final record show your reverence for truth, your zeal for excellence, your unfailing concern for your fellow men, as reflected in a life lived with dignity, and good will.

And now Loma Linda University salutes you as you join her sons and daughters scattered over the face of the earth. To each of you warm felicitations and Godspeed.

Nurses Hold Annual Alumni Banquet

Two hundred fifty nurses attended the annual homecoming banquet on June 3 in Loma Linda sponsored by the School of Nursing Alumni Association.

Honored guests included members of the class of 1915 and the class of 1940. Three graduates of the class of 1915, FRANCES KEIN BUSH, ROSE KEIN SHIPLEY, and GRACE LYNAM WEIR, were presented orchid corsages while members present from the class of 1940 received leis brought from Hawaii that day by classmate BESSIE WAT.

Speakers for the evening program were Mrs. Kemper Campbell, emeritus professor of legal medicine, who presented a novel view of current trends and needs in society; Dr. Robert E. Cleveland, vice president for academic affairs, and President Godfrey T. Anderson, who described the University's current growth and outlined School of Nursing facilities in the new medical center.

A $100 scholarship award was given to senior nursing student Joanne Oshita Chang. Dr. Lyra George was made an honorary member of the association for her years of dedicated service to the University and to the School of Nursing.

New officers for the coming year are ELSIE H. ZIPRICK, '41, president; LOIS V. JOHNSON, '53, vice president; and LIDA MAE YEOMAN, '61, secretary. New directors on the alumni board are ELIZABETH B. BEHREND, '41, and CHARLENE W. RIFFEL, '64.

Union Conference of Seventh-day Adventists.

Several noteworthy individuals were graduated from the University's various schools and curriculums.

Marlene M. Schultz received the Doctor of Dental Surgery degree from the School of Dentistry, becoming the first woman to graduate from the school since it was founded in 1953. Miss Schultz, 22, is the daughter of Dr. Arthur W. Schultz, a Los Angeles dentist who died in 1962.

Two sisters, Carolyn and Kathryn Nelson, were awarded the Doctor of Medicine degree. Their father, Elmer A. Nelson, MD, was graduated from the School of Medicine in 1924.

When Larry V. Smith received his DDS degree, he became the first son of an LLU School of Dentistry graduate to complete his dental education and follow in his father's footsteps. His father, Vernon R. Smith, DDS, was graduated from the School of Dentistry in 1960.

Staff Members Honored

The University honored two long-time staff members who will retire soon.

ation, was presented a plaque by Maynard V. Campbell, trustees chairman, making him one of the few persons to have received the title "University Associate."

Mary C. Monteith, administrative assistant in the School of Nursing, was honored for 37 years of service to the Seventh-day Adventist church, most of which was in nursing administration at Loma Linda University.

Degrees and Certificates

Bachelor of Science degrees were conferred on 21 seniors in the Dental Hygiene Curriculum, eight in the Medical Record Administration Curriculum, 17 in the School of Medical Technology, 48 in the School of Nursing, 10 in the Occupational Therapy Curriculum, and 38 in the School of Physical Therapy.

Two Master of Science degrees were awarded in microbiology, six in orthodontics, 17 in nursing, one in public health, two in nutrition and dietetics, and two in speech and hearing disorders. One candidate, in biology, received the Master of Arts degree.

Seventy-eight were graduated from the School of Medicine, the University's largest school, and 43 received degrees from the School of Dentistry.

Diploma certificates were awarded to 12 graduate dietitians completing 12-month dietetics internships at the University, and to five students finishing in the Radiologic Technology Curriculum.

Robert E. Cleveland, PhD, vice president for academic affairs introduced the classes. President Godfrey T. Anderson presented the charge to the classes and conferred the degrees. The invocation was offered by Wm. Frederick Norwood, PhD, assistant dean of the School of Medicine, and the benediction by Bernard C. Byrd, DDS, chairman of the department of oral surgery, School of Dentistry.

Music for the commencement and for a building-naming ceremony earlier in the afternoon was provided by the Long Beach Municipal Band, directed by Charles J. Payne.

Other commencement day features included tours of the campus by tram, tours of University buildings, and showings of the film, "Dateline: Loma Linda University."

Workers' Picnic Set For Next Month

Band music, games, and good food will be offered at the University employees' picnic on Tuesday, July 13.

All employees of Loma Linda University and their families are invited to the annual affair, says James W. Redfield, chairman of the personnel advisory committee which is planning the picnic.

Beginning at 4 p.m. at the recreational area on Stewart Street, a women's team will oppose the men in a softball game. Other scheduled activities are swimming, croquet, ping pong, and horseshoes. Separate games are planned for children 12 years of age and under.

Information regarding tickets for supper at 6:30 p.m. will be included in employees' pay envelopes soon.

To climax the evening's activities the 40-member Southern Pacific Band from Los Angeles will give a concert of favorite numbers at 8 p.m. Some of the selections are "Glow Worm," "Buglers' Holiday," "Thundercrest March," and the band's theme song, "Working on the Railroad."

The president of the American Dental Association, Fritz A. Pierson, DDS, who visited the campus in March, saluted the University for sixty years of educational and humanitarian service.

Statements from leaders in the Seventh-day Adventist church were received from Theodore Carcich, vice president for the North American Division; Pastor H.M.S. Richards of the Voice of Prophecy radio program; Pastor W. A. Fagal from the Faith for Today telecast; and R. R. Bietz, president of the Pacific Union Conference.

Other letters include those sent by Mayor Al Ballard of the City of San Bernardino; the Board of Supervisors of San Bernardino County; Waldo F. Burroughs, mayor of the City of Redlands; Stewart Hinckley, assemblyman in the California Legislature from the 73rd district; and James A. Guthrie, editor emeritus of the San Bernardino Sun-Telegram.

FLORENCE K. NELSON, '27, GS '49, is a dietitian with the Nursing Homes of America Corporation and will work out of the main office in Silver Spring, Maryland.

AUDA FAY MARTIN STARKS, '44, and her family are now located in Rusk, Texas where her husband, RALPH, SM '63, is practicing. Both she and Ralph are active in the small church there.

SHIRLEY T. MOORE, '45, will join the faculty of La Sierra College and will assist MARY PHILMON BYERS, '36, in the home economics department.

Josh Billings (A Subtreasury of American Humor by E. B. and K. S. White) had a humorous style with a difference — he wrote all his folksy nonfact with careful attention to ungrammatical constructions and incorrect spellings. Our great-or-so-grandparents split their sides over him; our grandparents shook a little, and we smile around a yawn. The reason is that humor, like clothes, goes out of style. What used to send our forebears in the aisles doesn't particularly knock us out.

In a generation of tragedy-dripping writers, the following have been bent on turning the tragedy into humor. Jean Kerr (Please Don't Eat the Daisies and The Snake Has All the Lines) revolved her humor around her drama-critic husband and their five (now) "monsters." "Ever since Gilbert was born," she wrote in Please Don't, "We have been looking for a larger house, and we knew what we wanted. I wanted a house that would have four bedrooms for the boys, all of them located some distance from the living room — say in the next county somewhere." The Everest of her ambition is to teach her children the simple precepts of existence — "Keep your fingers out of the plate. Don't wear your underwear to bed. Keep out of Federal institutions" — and somehow arrive at golden middle age with her larynx intact.

Richard Armour (It All Started with Columbus) holds up humor under his improbable accounts of history and his sense-in-nonsense poems. In the winning of the Old West, he brought out the fact that "persons who pulled their pistols out of their holsters first were known as the Quick; the others were the Dead." On the library, he wrote: "Here is where people/One frequently finds,/Lower their voices/And raise their minds."

Leonard Q. Ross (The Education of Hyman Kaplan) created a character to convey his humor. The lovable, irresistible, irrepressible Hyman Kaplan puts his foot in and out of his mouth at the rate of at least once a page. "In his peculiar linguistic universe there was the germ of a new lexicography. To Mr. Kaplan, an instrument for the repair of plumbing was 'a monkey ranch'."

Humor is a socially acceptable way of uniting the bad and the beautiful, and contemporary writers, alas, have not found the way.
